

Grievance Policy

Category: Executive Board Representation

Date last Revised: November 2024

Scheduled for Review: Spring 2026

I. Overview

This policy details each step of the grievance process and the related concerns around Duty of Fair Representation, Confidentiality, Conflicts of Interest, and training.

II. Duty of Fair Representation

a. The Alberta Labour Relations Board “Bulletin #18—The Duty of Fair Representation” states:

“Unions have a large amount of discretion when they deal with grievances. For example, unions may settle or drop grievances even if the affected employee disagrees. To counterbalance this power, the Labour Relations Code requires unions to fairly treat all members of a bargaining unit. . . . This duty of fair representation requires unions to exercise this power in good faith. This usually means unions must carefully examine grievances. The union must also consider the significance of the case and its consequences for the union and the employee. The representation by the union must be fair, genuine and not merely apparent. The union must act with integrity and competence as well as without serious or major negligence. The union must act without hostility towards the employee. This also means the union’s decision must not be arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory or wrongful.”¹

- i. The Association, and no person acting on behalf of the Association, shall deny an employee or former employee who is or was in the bargaining unit the right to be represented fairly by the Association with respect to the employee’s or former employee’s rights under the Collective Agreement. This duty of fair representation includes that
 - a) The Association must avoid ill will;
 - b) The Association must not discriminate;
 - c) The Association must not be arbitrary.
- ii. Conduct in the processing of grievances shall be reasonable, equitable, and carried out in good faith. The Association must avoid superficial consideration of grievances and must not arbitrarily ignore a meritorious grievance or process; however, individual members do not have an absolute right to advance grievances past Step 1.
- iii. Members of the Grievance Committee shall act in accordance with the Grievance Procedure article of the current Collective Agreement, the Grievance Committee article of the Bylaws, and this Policy.
- iv. The Association, through the President, shall seek legal advice at or in advance of any stage of the grievance process where consultation with legal counsel is deemed appropriate by the President in consultation with the Labour Relations Officer (LRO), the Senior Grievance Officer (SGO), the Grievance Committee or the Executive Board.

III. Confidentiality in the Grievance Process

- i. Confidentiality benefits the grievance process and therefore all members of the bargaining unit and the Association as a whole. It ensures that members feel free to discuss with the Association all aspects of their concerns without fear that the information will be improperly disclosed. An assurance of confidentiality encourages honesty and candour in members so that the Association can provide good advice and effectively defend the Collective Agreement.
- ii. The Association owes a duty of confidentiality to members who bring forward complaints about possible grievances. All communications between the Association and the member that relate to the complaint must not be disclosed outside of the Association, including to the University, without the consent of the member, and only in accordance with this Policy and Appendix I. All communication related to grievances must originate in a confidence that it will not be disclosed. Members must be informed that, for a grievance to proceed, relevant information will have to be discussed with the University, and that if the matter is decided by an arbitrator all relevant aspects of the case typically will become part of the public record, including searchable arbitration decision databases.
- iii. Confidentiality does not preclude the sharing of relevant information, as needed, within the Association by those with grievance-handling authority. This is inclusive of the Executive Board, the Grievance Committee, members of the Association's professional staff and legal counsel.
- iv. Confidentiality does not preclude that, as the grievance unfolds, less sensitive information, such as the date of the violation, the articles violated and the current status of the grievance, is typically released to the broader bargaining unit as the part of the Association's legal duty of fair representation and political responsibility to provide information on its activities.
- v. Should a member communicate a threat of violence, especially where there is a clear risk to an identifiable person or group of persons of serious bodily harm or death and the danger is imminent, the Association must balance the duty of confidentiality with the importance of protecting the safety of others. Any such threat, and no other information gathered by the Association in the course of assisting a member, shall be reported in accordance with the law to the proper authorities and the intended victims. If time permits, the Association's President, SGO, professional staff and legal counsel shall confer on the proper course of action.

IV. Issues Relating to Members' Conflicting Interests

- i. Where grievances or potential grievances concern members or groups of members with contrary interests, and where it is possible that the Association may need to provide confidential advice, assistance or representation to members with contrary interests, the Association takes steps to fulfil its duty of fair representation to all members.

V. Handling of Grievances

- i. The grievor shall be provided updates at each step or decision point within the grievance process by the SGO or designate. Updates shall include any decisions made by the Association, the reasons for the decision, and any applicable deadlines within the collective agreement. When applicable, the update shall include a copy of the Statement of Grievance. Where the grievor is the Association, updates shall be provided to the Executive Board by the SGO.

- ii. The Grievance Committee shall review the outcomes of grievances (whether settled, withdrawn or won/lost at arbitration) and make recommendations, intended to prevent similar grievances, to the Executive Board regarding administration of the Collective Agreement and to the Negotiating Committee regarding changes to the Collective Agreement.
